Chairman and Director's Report

DEAR FRIENDS:

The events of the 2006–2007 Fiscal Year will endure as an auspicious chapter in the story of the Toledo Museum of Art. After nearly a decade that included planning, design, construction, and installation, we opened the Glass Pavilion, an architectural masterpiece designed by SANAA of Tokyo. From the extraordinary excitement of Preview Week to the glowing media reviews to the multitudes of local, national, and international visitors, the Glass Pavilion has truly become the crowning jewel of the Glass City.

BUILDING

After months of anticipation, the Glass Pavilion opened in August 2006 with six days of festive events, glassblowing, and the Pavilion's premier exhibition, The Art of Glass: Masterworks from the Collection, all culminating in a grand public inauguration. During this week alone, nearly 10,000 visitors traveled from near and far to catch a first glimpse of the remarkable structure and our renowned collection of glass art within.

National and international media attention crested as the Pavilion received rave reviews and coverage from The New York Times, The Los Angeles Times, Architectural Record, Time Magazine, and numerous other periodicals. The Pavilion also garnered many awards, including Travel + Leisure's 2007 Design Award for "Best Museum" and the Ohio Museums Association's Institutional Excellence Award. Best of all, this media momentum and public excitement translated into a 27 percent increase in Museum visits, for a total attendance of nearly 430,000 in Fiscal Year 2006–2007.

STRENGTHENING

Vitality spread through the main Museum, as well. In October 2006, more than 1,000 guests gathered for The Blast, opening the special exhibition In Stabiano: Exploring the Ancient Seaside Villas of the Roman Elite. This signature fundraising event, co-sponsored by the Museum Ambassadors, raised more than $70,000 for Museum exhibitions and programs by transporting guests "back in time" to experience the lives of ancient Romans at the time of the eruption of Mt. Vesuvius.

Newly acquired masterworks strengthened the collection, including artist and activist Elizabeth Catlett's gift of 20 of her prints, an ancient Roman shield portrait of Caesar Augustus, and the Apollo Society's 2007 gift of Lynda Benglis's bronze sculpture Migrating Pedmarks, which—when installed in 2008—will be the first work of outdoor sculpture acquired since the 2001 dedication of the Georgia and David K. Welles Sculpture Garden.

CONNECTING

Our successful community connections and outreach programs continued to grow, as our third annual Juneteenth Celebration set attendance records of more than 4,000 guests and volunteers. Our next Juneteenth Celebration, scheduled for June 21, 2008, is fully expected to expand on these auspicious beginnings.

Our Docent program extended its reach with multiple visit programs for local high schools, including the Polly Fox Academy, a specialized high school for pregnant and parenting teens. In conjunction with the Community Gallery exhibition Children of Children: Portraits and Stories of Teenage Parents—co-organized with Partners for Successful Youth—Docents engaged and inspired Polly Fox students to examine and create art as a means of positive self-expression.

The Toledo Museum of Art concluded Fiscal Year 2006–2007 with great momentum, propelled by a celebrated addition to our campus, a dazzling and growing collection, and enhanced connections with new and familiar audiences. Well into the first decade of our second century, our mission of integrating art into the lives of people continues to resonate powerfully with our constituents.

We recognize and appreciate your support,

George M. Jones, III
Chairman of the Board, 2004–2007

Financial Statement

Fiscal Year 2006–2007 was a year of discovery for the Museum and its visitors. Hundreds of thousands of people from across the globe traveled to see the Glass Pavilion, the culmination of our record-setting Founders of the Second Century capital campaign. Within this architectural masterpiece, guests discovered and rediscovered our world-renowned glass art collection, while mere steps away—in our glass studios—artists and students practiced many of the techniques represented in the collection.

The Glass Pavilion also served to energize our campus and allowed us to discover ways in which to expand and enhance our exhibitions, public programs, educational outreach, community art classes, and much more. Live glassblowing demonstrations became a fast favorite, drawing standing-room-only crowds and prompting an extended schedule that now offers daily demos for visitors. Additional Docent-led tours and new hands-on activities were also developed to enhance the Pavilion experience while establishing connections with the Museum's collection.

To realize these growth opportunities, the Museum produced $13.2 million in revenue, a nearly 6% increase over the previous year. In addition, the Museum carefully budgeted, planned, and maintained operational efficiency throughout the year to help mitigate the rising cost of business. This vigilance, coupled with our support from generous individual and corporate donors, our earned income, and our investment earnings, allowed us to realize a modest operating surplus of just over $20,000 for Fiscal Year 2006–2007.

Without the benefit of city or county tax dollars, the Museum—now operating two buildings—continues to face the challenge of offering free admission while delivering the highest quality, accessible art experiences and art education services possible. It is only with ongoing support from all our constituencies that the Museum is able to enhance and increase the services and programs our community has come to expect for 107 years.
